[redacted] and similarly the copyrighted documents exploited by FDD and the dissemination of that copyrighted material by that division. It is a question apparently of your liability should this information fall into hands which would use it in violation of the copyright agreements. Included is the problem of the further dissemination by those divisions of intercepted or exploited slanderous information.

2. To this office it appears that the use of a stamp or caveat designed to prevent violation of copyright serves only as your attempt to confine the use of copyright information to official purposes. Such a stamp or caveat probably does not, in our opinion, serve as a legal safeguard against any liability.

3. We recommend that O/O, with the assistance of the General Counsel, submit to the Director through the DD/I a statement of this problem, your joint opinion as to liability, and O/O's current steps to prevent violation of copyright together with a recommendation for appropriate legislative or executive action, if deemed necessary, to provide adequate protection to the DCI.
